Case IH Brings Back Maxxum® Series 2WD Tractors for 2017

RACINE, Wis. (Feb. 15, 2017) —

Case IH is excited to announce a new line of Maxxum series 2WD tractors that combine efficient power with enhanced maneuverability and a tighter turning radius. Models ranging from 116- to 145-rated engine horsepower boosts the PTO, hydraulics and transport speed that are hallmarks of the performance available from Maxxum tractors. These models are ideal for hay and forage operations, vegetable production, dairy operations, municipalities and small-acreage mixed farms.

“By popular demand, we are excited to bring back 2WD capabilities to our Maxxum tractor lineup,” said Cole Carling, Case IH Maxxum tractor marketing manager. “Removing the MFD feature reduces the purchase price, but still gives producers the dedicated horsepower to get the job done. This creates a best-in-class package perfect for pulling round balers, mower conditioners and specialty planters. It’s also a great mower tractor for municipalities.”

Carling added that the vegetable market will benefit from the lineup’s available pressure-flow compensating hydraulics, which ensures more precise planting.

In addition to enhanced maneuverability in the field, producers can take advantage of the engineering quality and technology of Case IH tractors at a lower price point. Premium features of Maxxum tractors include:

- Case IH FPT Selective Catalytic Reduction (SCR) emissions technology frees engines to produce raw power and torque with less fuel.
- The SurroundVision cab with high-visibility roof panel — plus smaller front wheels — provides unobstructed, 360-degree vision.
- Available cab suspension provides a smooth, comfortable ride in the field or on the road.

Maxxum series 2WD models are available now.
