A GOURMET ODYSSEY AT THE PENINSULA TOKYO

The Peninsula continues its long tradition of providing unique dining options for its guests at The Peninsula Tokyo with a gourmet odyssey of four exceptional restaurants and a café.

Located on the 24th floor, Peter offers French cuisine set in a modern and sensual interior with breathtaking 360-degree views of Tokyo and the famed Imperial Palace Gardens.

Designed by renowned US and Canadian architecture and design team Yabu Pushelberg, custom-made express elevators transport guests from the hotel lobby to this dining heaven with a view. Occupying the entire 24th floor, Peter offers 128 seats for main dining, one semi-private dining area, one private dining room and a banquet room able to seat up to 60 guests with access to an outside terrace.

Using classic Japanese colors of “nasu” – the deep purple of eggplant – and lavender, wood and steel, Peter stretches the imagination and masterfully combines a range of diverse environments within one restaurant. A lounge bar area features a bar counter and seating area with polished chrome trees highlighting the Japanese link with nature and the Imperial Palace Gardens and Hibiya Park below, while the restaurant features a round “pod” concealing semi-private dining area and an interactive video wall providing images and entertainment.

Elegant casual, courteous and conversational service makes Peter a friendly and welcoming place for high-power business lunches or intimate evening dinners. While Peter: The Bar serves premium Champagnes, signature cocktails, cigars and creative comfort cuisine.

Located on the second floor and designed by Henry Leung of Chhada Siembieda Leung Ltd., Hei Fung Terrace offers authentic Cantonese cuisine set in a Suzhou garden theme, reiterating the hotel’s proximity to the Imperial Gardens. Open daily for lunch and dinner and offering 81 seats for main dining and three private dining rooms, two of them offering views of the Imperial Gardens, it is ideal for any occasion.

Unique to Hei Fung Terrace is The Peninsula Chinese Chefs' Table. Located inside the kitchen area, this private room provides a bird's eye view of the chefs in action. With one window overlooking the large flaming stoves and another window serving as the kitchen's fish tank, guests will be treated to a marvelous show by Chef Tang.

A signature restaurant of all Peninsula hotels, The Lobby is where the world meets Tokyo and Tokyo meets the world. The heart of the hotel offers a welcoming environment ideal for all-day dining, with the celebrated Peninsula Afternoon tea served to live music. Open daily from 6:30 am until 11:00 pm and with 128 seats, The Lobby offers international favourites for breakfast, lunch, Afternoon Tea, dinner and late night cocktails.

Set in a circular interior with a dramatic modern crystal chandelier as its focal point, The Lobby exudes modern Japan. Japanese interior designer, Yukio Hashimoto uses beige marble, warm earth tone colors and gold with natural wood and dramatic high ceilings to enhance the dining experience.

Chef de Cuisine Jun Ishii's signature dishes include the famous Peninsula Afternoon Tea set, Pan seared red snapper with organic brown rice and mushrooms and Kobe beef steak sandwich on crusty baguette, chimichurri and truffle fries.

Kyoto Tsuruya, sister to the famous Kyoto kaiseki restaurant, is located on basement level one. Due to Kyoto Tsuruya's rich history and distinct style, Kyoto Tsuruya ensures that the very finest of Japanese cuisine is offered to hotel and visiting guests.

Kaiseki is a Japanese culinary art form that balances taste, texture, appearance, and colors. Only fresh seasonal ingredients are used, which are prepared in ways to bring out their flavors. Dishes are meticulously presented on fine Japanese lacquer and ceramic ware that are paired to enhance the appearance of the food and reflect the seasons. The final touches are often real leaves and flowers, and edible garnishes.

Designed by Nomura Koge, Kyoto Tsuruya seats 60 and is open daily for lunch and dinner. Its contemporary environment is the perfect setting for guests to enjoy this artful and rich style of dining prepared with the freshest of seasonal ingredients.

Also located on basement level one with direct access to the Hibiya train station is The Peninsula Boutique & Café, open daily from 11:00 am until 7:00 pm. Designed by Brennan Beer Gorman Monk and with 42 seats it serves an à la carte all-day dining menu. With take-out options available, it is easy to stop by and pick up something quick on the way to work or home.

Executive Pastry Chef Shigeru Nojima creates the hotel's own cakes, pastries and breads. While the famous Peninsula Chocolatier chocolates, teas and gift items are available for purchase. Ideal as a gift is The Peninsula Tokyo's exclusive Japanese sake. Partnering with Ikemoto Brewery, one of Japan's most famous breweries, two unique sakes are offered - Biwa no Chojyu Jyunmai Daiginjyo and Biwa no Chojyu Jyunmaishu. In addition, The Peninsula Tokyo offers the Peninsula teddy bear dressed in a traditional Japanese yukata, rice crackers, ponzu sauce and more.
