Tubular Doom Trio

The Tubular Doom steps out in a trio of new iterations this month, courtesy of adidas Originals.

First up, the original Tubular Doom silhouette will be releasing in a women's-exclusive iteration. The shoe's sock-fit design is brought to its apex through a full Primeknit upper, supported by structural overlays and a contrast heel-cage panel. A minimalist lacing system is underpinned by simple adidas Originals branding on the tongue, whilst welded details on the upper add texture to the shoe's fluid design. Offered in a clean Trace Pink colorway with contrast Vapour Grey details, the release brings the aggressive aesthetic of the Tubular Doom into a softer, feminine context without sacrificing any of its original energy.

Accompanying the Tubular Doom PK, the Tubular Doom Sock arrives in two new Primeknit constructions, structured by a rear heel-support piece and an integrated lacing system. This is finished with the distinctive Tubular Doom tooling and understated branding details on the tongue, presenting Tubular's most aggressive silhouette in a more refined and accessible aesthetic. The Tubular Doom Sock PK will be available in Charcoal and Sesame/Clear Brown colorways.
