Burr Ridge, October 4, 2018

CNH Industrial (NYSE: CNHI /MI: CNHI) welcomed Representative Glenn Grothman of Wisconsin's 6th Congressional District to its New Holland plant in St. Nazianz, Wisconsin, USA on Wednesday, October 3, 2018.

The St. Nazianz plant was recognized for achieving the International Standards Organization (ISO) 140001, 50001 and Occupational Health and Safety Assessment Series (OHSAS) 18001 certifications, which act as a testament to the plant's efforts in reducing environmental impact, as well as ensuring a safe and healthy workplace and using energy efficiently.

"The St. Nazianz plant is one of few manufacturers in Wisconsin to be audited and achieve certification to all three standards in a single audit," said Dick Brown, St. Nazianz Plant Manager. "All of our employees contributed to this process and I could not be prouder. We believe this is important to ensuring we do our part to be a good neighbor and employer," Brown said.

The St. Nazianz facility has 200 employees, manufacturing self-propelled sprayers and forage baggers. The site also has engineering testing facilities.

Rep. Grothman's visit included a plant tour and a meet-and-greet with plant employees.

"The 6th district is home to thousands of manufacturing jobs and it's so great to see the industry back at the forefront of the U.S. economy," said Rep. Grothman. "I am impressed with the industry certifications the plant has earned and I look forward to following their progress in the future."
