

CASE Announces All-New Mulcher Attachment

Racine, Wis., October 18, 2018

CASE Construction Equipment has introduced an all-new mulcher-head attachment. Compatible with CASE skid steers and compact track loaders, the attachment ships standard with high flow (HF) configuration, and can be easily converted at the dealership for use with enhanced high flow (EHF) hydraulics systems on 90-HP+ machines.

Ideal for land clearing, site prep, right-of-way and trail maintenance applications, the mulcher features a variable two-speed motor that automatically adjusts the motor displacement to maximize rotor speed and torque to changing material loads.

A drum-style rotor system features a smooth rotor surface, spiral tool pattern and innovative tool shape for smooth, efficient cutting, while bolt-on AR400 steel skid shoes reduce plowing of material for a more uniform final result. A pin-on push bar with serrated ears adjusts to three positions to better direct material to feed the mulcher.

The new mulcher comes standard with proprietary double-carbide teeth and a severe-duty body construction for enhanced durability in tough applications. Available options include a Samurai knife tool that provides a finer and more consistent chip size, and an optional deflector door designed to help contain debris as well as achieve finer debris sizing.
