PwC recognised as a Vanguard Leader worldwide in Kennedy Information's new report on HR Communications consulting

PwC praised for providing HR consulting capabilities, which enable end-to-end services and modernised solutions.

PwC announced today that Kennedy, the leading consulting research and advisory firm, has rated PwC as a Vanguard Leader in HR Communications consulting in their new research which sets out key market trends and evaluates the major HR Communications consulting vendors.

Kennedy evaluated 13 firms in their research and PwC is one of only three firms to have attained Vanguard status. Vanguard firms are those which Kennedy has found to have the broadest and deepest capabilities in a chosen market.

"This recognition reflects that PwC is in a unique position to assist clients in navigating the most difficult challenges as they transform their businesses" said Juan Pujadas, Global Advisory Chairman,

He added, "It's not only our unique combination of Advisory and HR Consulting capabilities that sets us apart from other firms and providers, it's our ability to mobilise our workforce to help clients across a range of industries, throughout Europe and the Rest of the World."

Says Jon Williams, PwC's Global People and Organisation Leader, "Understanding that the impact and effect of digital mediums goes far beyond what we first perceive, is crucial in an era that is defined by technology. Digital not only affects business performance from a technical point of view, but also from a workforce perspective. Whilst the way we communicate in life is changing, it is still important to value relationships and maintain a personal style of communication."
