

CV Harry Brian

Harry Brian serves as the Business Development Manager – Industrial Security Services for Siemens in the U.S., where he is responsible for delivering security services to customers. Mr. Brian has been with Siemens since 2006 in various roles supporting automation, including leading the development team for the Simatic S7-300/400 PLC Simulator, as well as consulting on product security for SIMATIC products in North America as part of Siemens Product and Solutions Security, U.S. Security Hub. Mr. Brian has a BS in Computer Science from North Carolina State University. Mr. Brian has several certifications from GIAC, as well as being CISSP certified.