

CV Franz Köbinger

Franz Köbinger joined SIEMENS AG, Automation Division, in 1995 after completing his studies in electrical engineering with a focus on automation technology. He first worked as a project engineer for the automation system SIMATIC S7 and then switched to product management for industrial communication with responsibility for industrial firewalls and security systems. Since 2013 he has worked as Marketing Manager for Industrial Security and at the end of 2017, when he moved to Digital Factory division, he took over the lead of the cross-divisional Industrial Security Marketing Team.