

Dave Braines, CTO, IBM UK Emerging Technology

Dave Braines is the CTO for the IBM UK Emerging Technology team. His role involves defining and delivering unusual and first-of-a-kind client focused projects, directing research activities, collaborating with UK and US universities and encouraging publication of our work as Open Source assets.

Dave is an active industry researcher and has delivered of numerous first-of-a-kind experimental projects fusing research capabilities with current technologies for a variety of clients. Most recently he specialises in knowledge representation, semantics, language and cognitive systems and is actively researching in these fields as well as delivering experimental capabilities.