

Wolfgang Steinbauer

Vice President, Head of the NXP Innovation Center
Crypto and Security

---

Wolfgang Steinbauer leads the Innovation Center for Crypto and Security at NXP. In this role he is responsible for managing Security Innovation, Architecture, IP and Certification for the secure product portfolio and supporting the business teams in Automotive, Microcontroller, Secure Interface Products and Secure Transactions.

He joined NXP in 2000, gained experience in different security related roles, between 2007 and 2013 was responsible for Secure Product Development and since 2013 has been responsible for the Crypto and Security team.

Prior to joining NXP, he worked in the R&D department at Austria Microsystems, developing products for mobile communication.

He is also a Senior Lecturer at a University of Applied Sciences, FH Joanneum, teaching in the area of security and transmission technology and holds a Master's Degree in Electrical Engineering from the University of Technology in Graz.

